

ARRIVALS

PROFESSIONALS NEW TO PITTSBURGH, PA

JEREMY WALDRUP is president and CEO of Pittsburgh Downtown Partnership. Before joining PDP, Waldrup worked with New York City's Department of Small Business Services. Waldrup holds a bachelor's degree in economics from the University of North Carolina at Charlotte and a master's from the University of Colorado's School of Public Affairs. Waldrup moved to Pittsburgh from Brooklyn, N.Y., and lives in Squirrel Hill with his wife, Wesley, and two children.

DARLEEN OPFER is director of education at RAND. She comes to Pittsburgh from Cambridge, England, where she taught education at the University of Cambridge. Previously, she directed a policy research center at Ohio State University. She has a bachelor's in education from Stetson University, and a master's and Ph.D. in behavior disorders and education policy from the University of Virginia. A native of Daytona Beach, Fla., Opfer plans to live in Squirrel Hill with her husband, David J. Garrow, a Pulitzer Prize-winning historian.

STEPHEN A. GLASSMAN is president and CEO of Community Design Center of Pittsburgh. He joins the Center after serving as chairman of the Pennsylvania Human Relations Commission and principal of his Maryland and Pennsylvania-based architectural firm. A native of Toronto, Glassman grew up in Baltimore. He graduated from Brown University with degrees in art history and fine arts, and from Yale University with a master's degree in architecture. He plans to live in East Liberty.

DANA THOMAS is area director of marketing operations for HealthSouth Hospitals of Pittsburgh. Thomas joined HealthSouth after serving as vice president of marketing for a start-up biotechnology company. Thomas received a bachelor's degree in biology Thomas is from Louisville, Ky., and lives in Fox Chapel with his wife, Pam.

SHARON WALSH is editor of PublicSource, a news outlet created by The Pittsburgh Foundation and Pittsburgh Filmmakers. Walsh comes to PublicSource from the Lexington Herald-Leader. She has been an investigative reporter and editor at various publications, including The Washington Post, The Philadelphia Inquirer and The Chronicle of Higher Education. A native of Louisville, Ky., Walsh has a bachelor's degree in English and humanities from the University of Louisville, and a master's in journalism from the University of Kansas.

